Executive summary

This report outlines the approach with which we will do stuff in the NewsEye project. This is a short summary.

Contents

1 Introduction

Abstract here...

Short introduction here...

2 The content

The main content of the deliverable is organised in to sections.

2.1 Subsection

And subsections.

A paragraph title. You can also use `\paragraph{}` for small divisions.

3 Formatting

Use standard LaTeXformatting to write your document.

Format lists using `\begin{itemize}`.

- Point 1
- Another point

Separate paragraphs using blank lines.

If you need to force a page break, use `\newpage`.

You can use footnotes using the `\footnote{}` command[1].

---

[1]Like this!

To include figures inline, using `\begin{figure}[H]`. For example, the following chart provides an overview on the main components of the project:

4 References

You can cite papers by adding them to `references.bib` and then including the `\cite{}` command to refere to them: [1].

To update your bibliography, you need to run `pdflatex main`, then `biber main`, then `pdflatex main` again.

URLs should be included using the `\href{}{}` command.

Refer to sections within the document by placing a `\label{myname}` command at the start of the section, then using the `\ref{myname}` command to refer to it, as in the case of the section 2.1. Use the same method for referring to figures, like fig. 1.
